EX-SHERIFF OF STEPHENS CO. IS SHOT BY BARBER

E. H. Rhyne Is Dead as Result of Second Attack by Bob Calmes.

NO MOTIVE ASSIGNED

Sheriff Was on Crutches from First Attack of Calmes in December.

(By the Associated Press)

DUNCAN, May 21.—E. H. Rhyne, former sheriff of Stephens county, who was shot this morning by Bob Calmes a barber here, died at a hospital a few hours after the shooting.

DUNCAN, Okla., May 21.—E. H. Rhyne, former sheriff of Stephens county, was shot and probably fatally wounded in the courthouse here today by Bob Calmes, a barber. It was the second time Calmes had attacked Rhyne and when shot today Rhyne was walking with crutches as a result of the first shooting which occurred on the street here December 5 last.

Rhyne had just entered the building and started to ascend the stairs when Calmes, who was on the first landing, fired down at him six times, three bullets taking effect. Rhyne was shot in the chin, chest and shoulder.

District court was in session on the third floor of the building and the pistol shots drew an immediate crowd to the foot of the stairway where a trail of blood led through a side door of the building. Rhyne was found in the courthouse yard. His discarded crutches lay at the spot where he had been shot.

Calmes went to the sheriff's office on the second floor and surrendered. He was placed in jail. Calmes was out on bond as a result of the first shooting. Charges had not been placed against him pending the final outcome of Rhyne's case out of office Jan. Calmes did not indicate his motive for either shooting.

Rhyne went out of office January 1 last. A revolver which he carried was found in his holster untouched. Calmes' weapon contained six empty shells when he turned it over to the authorities.

The corridor and stairway were deserted except for the two men when the shooting took place and there were no eye witnesses.

VOROVSKY'S BODY BURIED AT MOSCOW

(By the Associated Press)

MOSCOW, May 21.—The body of Vorovsky, soviet representative at the Lausanne conference, who was assassinated May 10, was buried last evening beside the walls of the historic Kremlin. A crowd that packed the great square and overflowed into the streets beyond gathered in the bright sunshine of the summer evening to witness the simple communist burial ceremony. The grave was beside that of John Reed, former leader of the communist party of America.

There was no religious note in the ceremony, but when the interment was completed, the tomb was piled high with wreaths given by Russian government institutions and many foreign officials residing in Moscow.

A tribute to the dead was read by the acting premier, foreign minister and chairman of the executive committee of the Third International.

Authorities Plan Further Probe of Freshman's Death

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 21.—Further activity of the authorities in the investigation into the disappearance more than a year and a half ago of Leighton Mount, Northwestern University freshman, were to be planned today at a conference which states attorney Robert Crowe said he would hold with his assistants.

It is known that several students will be questioned, including some that already have been interrogated. Whether the grand jury which reconvenes today will resume its inquiry into the case is problematical.

THE REAL "YELLOW PERIL"

PARK BATHING SEASON OPENS

Large Crowds at Glenwood
Park Sunday; Many Improvements Noted.

Over a hundred bathers flocked to Glenwood park yesterday on the opening day of the bathing season in Ada. Not only was the small boy very much in evidence in the participation of this favorite summer sport, but many of his elders answered the call of their younger days and went with the kiddies.

Glenwood park has seen many improvements this year in preparation for the summer. Forty new benches have been placed under the big trees, the tennis courts have been put in shape and many changes have been made to facilitate handling the crowds that will flock to the swimming pool.

A band stand is to be erected in the near future in the grove just west of the pool and the park management is planning a series of concerts by the different musical organizations of the city during the summer months. A croquet court is also being prepared for those who do not care to indulge in the more strenuous sports.

In an advertisement appearing in the issue of the News for last Friday the prices of admission to the swimming pool in Glenwood Park were in error. The following prices are correct, according to Somer Jones, Chief of the Fire Department, who will be in charge of the pool for the season: 10c and 15c for children and adults, respectively, where bathers furnish their own suits; and 25c and 35c when suits are furnished by the management.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ADDS NEW DEPARTMENT

The Ada Chamber of Commerce is now offering an additional service to the people of Ada and vicinity by maintaining an employment bureau in their office at 207 East Main street. The fact that there is not an employment bureau in Ada to serve worthy men and women that are out of employment and believing that local people that have stayed with Ada through both the flourishing times and the time of depression should have first consideration when there are positions open, the Chamber of Commerce has decided to open a free employment bureau for the benefit of local people.

Any local person that is out of employment should make application for work through this bureau. Every effort will be made to find work for the unemployed and it will cost you nothing but a desire to work. Local business concerns will be expected to inquire of the Chamber of Commerce when in need of help. Every applicant will be thoroughly examined as to ability, integrity, etc., in his or her particular kind of work and any one in need of either skilled or unskilled labor can likely get dependable men or women through the service of this bureau.

POLICE AFTER ADA SPEEDSTERS

Drive for Ordinance Enforcement
Sunday Reshuts in Three Fines.

That Ada is to be made safer for the pedestrian is evidenced by the beginning of a drive against the violators of the traffic regulations. Three speedsters contributed the customary eight-six-bits for the first offense and one other was charged $19.75 for a speed demonstration and an additional $14.75 for driving with the muffler open. Chief of Police, Adair, stated this morning that the war against the useless noise arising from open mufflers had only just begun.

He also called attention to the custom of Ada motorists of double parking which is in direct violation of the city traffic rulings. "It is not only dangerous to the motorist driving the car and committing the offense," he said, "but is a hindrance and a menace to other traffic in the streets and must be stopped. Park at the curb, even if you have to walk back for half a block," is the edict from the city hall.

A special traffic squad will be added to the police force in order to correct the driving evils as soon as possible.

BRITISH PRIME MINISTER IS FORCED TO QUIT

Ill Health Compels Retirement of Bonar Law From Cabinet.

SUCCESSOR UNCERTAIN

Curzon and Baldwin Mentioned in Connection With Vacant Post.

(By the Associated Press)

LONDON, May 21.—Andrew Bonar Law resigned as prime minister yesterday following the advice of his physicians that he retire and endeavor to recover his failing health.

The retiring premier succeeded Lloyd-George when the latter was forced from office by an adverse vote of parliament which was later sustained by the electorate in a general election called to choose members of parliament.

Successor Not Appointed

LONDON, May 21.—Great Britain it is expected will remain without a premier throughout today at least. King George, who is in Aldershot, had up to 6 p. m. asked no one to accept the premiership in succession to Bonar Law, who resigned yesterday, so far as known to the public.

The king it is said, has no present intention of curtailing his visit to Aldershot, which is expected to last most of the week. Meanwhile, the two most promising prospects for head of the government, Earl Curzon and Stanley Baldwin, chancellor of the exchequer, are in the country for the Whitsuntide holidays and plan to remain away until Wednesday.

High Water Does

Damage to Sayre
Business District

SAYRE, May 21.—Citizens here today were busy scraping mud from the streets and scrubbing the floors of business houses as the result of a heavy rain late yesterday which caused Short creek to overflow its banks and flood the business area of the city.

Damage estimated at several thousand dollars resulted from the high waters.

Reports that a family had been washed away which were current last night were discounted today when a check of inhabitants of the oil field showed no one missing.

Rescuers picked up about 30 laborers and farm hands marooned on tent tops and on hastily constructed houses during the down-pour and immediately after the water swept through Sayre in a stream reported to be five blocks wide. The greater part of the damage was confined to the business district.

Sayre's six inches of rain was concentrated into forty-five minutes, it was said today unofficially.

Mayor O. Martin is authority for the statement that "as far as we know" all the inhabitants of the oil town were safe.

Hughes company announced Sunday night that the Hughes-McKie oil well near here which caught fire eleven days ago, causing the death of thirteen men, was extinguished at 7:15 o'clock Sunday night after a week's effort. DAY RESIGNS FROM CLAIMS COMMISSION

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—William R. Day, former associate justice of the supreme court, today presented his resignation to President Harding as umpire of the mixed claims commission.

Mr. Day explained to the president that his desire to resign was due to the enormous amount of work facing the commission with claims amounting to $1,479,064,000 to be settled and to his belief that a younger and stronger man should be in charge of the work of adjusting claims on which the American and German commissioners are unable to agree. The resignation becomes effective immediately.

A former secretary of state and for twenty years a justice of the United States supreme court Mr. Day was regarded by both American and German statesmen as a particularly fortunate selection for the place from which he is now retiring. His resignation is expected to delay the work of adjustment on which the claims commission has already entered.

In some quarters it was suggested today that Edwin B. Parker of Texas, the American member of the commission, might be chosen umpire because of his familiarity with the steps already taken toward settlement of the war claims.

Randall was shot in both hands but is not believed to be seriously wounded. The shooting followed the arrest of young Jim Skinner on a charge of stealing two bottles of whiskey. His father resented the arrest and opened fire upon Randall with a Twelve-gauge shotgun. The officer returned the fire shooting Skinner in the leg and lower abdomen. C. H. Wooden, another officer was in the car with Randall at the time but escaped injury.

OKLAHOMA LOSES TAX SUIT AGAINST TEXAS COMPANY

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—A case brought by the treasurer of Oklahoma against the Texas Co. to compel it to pay taxes imposed on it as a "foreign corporation" was dismissed by the supreme court today for want of jurisdiction.

The Texas co., contended that it should pay taxes as a corporation of that state because having acquired a franchise in the Indian territory it was entitled under act of congress to perpetually enjoy the status of a "domestic corporation." That view had been sustained by the lower federal court.

CHINESE BANDIT QUESTION STILL HANGING FIRE

No Steps Taken for Final Settlement With Train
Brigands.

WOMAN RELEASED

Says Captives Suffering; Fourteen Still Held in Hills.

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Further negotiations between Chinese government authorities and the bandit leaders in Shantung "are futile" unless there is foreign representation on the Chinese delegation, in the opinion of American observers in a report today to the state department.

Dispatches suggested that Roy Anderson, an American long a resident and intimate in his association with the bandits and government of ficials in China might be chosen to negotiate with the brigands and be provided with "plenipotentiary powers." Otherwise, the state department said of the situation: "The only hope of the early release of the prisoners will be by direct foreign negotiations."

Prisoners Suffering

LONDON, May 21.—A Central News dispatch from Shanghai reported the release by Chinese bandits of Mrs. Manuel Varea, wife of a Mexican manufacturer who says that the 14 prisoners still held by the brigands are living under terrible conditions. Mrs. Varea was exhausted when she reached Shanghai.

Troops Reported Firing on Bandits

Pekin, May 21.—Reports that troops were firing on the Shantung bandits were received by the diplomatic corps which immediately drafted a note to the foreign office asking the Chinese government how it reconciled its promise to procure the release of the foreign captives with what has transpired since that assurance.

As parliament has not acted on ratification of the present appointment of Dr. Wellington Koo as foreign minister the foreign office still is officially without a head.

The diplomatic corps heard the recital of Marcel Berube a Frenchman of Shanghai, whom the bandits released so that he could present their ultimatum to the government.

COURT PASSES ON INDIAN LAND LAW

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The secretary of the interior is not authorized to sell the surface of leased or unleased lands of the Choctaw or Chickasaw Indians of Oklahoma at the value appraised in 1918, the supreme court held today in a case brought by the secretary of the interior and governor of the Chickasaw Nation against the McAlester-Edwards Coal Co., the suit involving coal lands in Pittsburg county.

Congress in 1912 authorized the sale of surface lands under restrictions and the McAlester-Edwards Coal Co. did not avail itself of its preference rights to purchase. In 1918 congress authorized the sale of coal and asphalt deposits belonging to the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians, giving also the right to purchase the surface of the land to which they held lease. When the company sought to exercise that right the interior department held that it would have to pay the value placed upon the land under the survey of 1918. The company contended that it was entitled to make the purchase at the value fixed in 1912. The court of appeals of the District of Columbia had decided in favor of the company.

TALAHASSEE, Fla., May 21.—The house of representatives this morning passed 49 to 9 a bill that would prevent more than one trial judge being disqualified in this state on unproven charges by the defense that he is prejudiced. The action on the bill today was precipitated by the disqualification of Judge Mellyory Horne from presiding in the case of Walter Higginbotham, charged with the murder of Martin Tabert of North Dakota.

SOMETHING ABOUT DOROTHY CANFIELD

Dorothy Canfield has so many successes to her credit and is so versatile a person that one despairs of chronicling even a small part of her achievements. When little more than a girl she had won two degrees, a Ph.D. and a Ph.D., and it was not many years after that she became famous as an author.

Her books are the type that live. To speak of one of her latest big successes, "The Unlucky Cup," calls up mention of her earlier work and starts discussion of "The Bent Twig" or "The Squirrel Cage," or away from her novels to her books on the Montessori method.

When war came, Mrs. Fisher (she is Mrs. Fisher in private life) went to France with her husband and two children—where she did big and important work. But all the time she was working abroad she was writing too, stories that appeared in our leading magazines, and books that were published upon her return.

MARY STEWART CUTTING, JR.

The first time I ever heard the threadbare saying about a square peg in a round hole, was when my father used it in an attempt to excuse Aunt Emily. Up to that time I had never heard anyone say anything of her except that she was a detestable woman with the most infernal capacity for being perfectly wretched herself and making everybody else so. What a home she made for poor mild Uncle Charles, and for their three nervous, scrawny, rabbit-faced children!

You are not to think she neglected her home or her children. Indeed no! She house-kept with a fanatical competence and expended on the upbringing of her children an extravagant energy which filled the house to its remotest corner, as a savant is filled by the strident energy of the saw. Never were three children so brought up as my poor little cousins. Aunt Emily was determined that she should do her whole duty by them, that they should be perfect, and do everything exactly right. Of course she knew much better than they what was right, and hence had never an instant of repose from her labor of pushing and shoving them into the way they should go.

Oh, how we hated to be sent on an errand to Aunt Emily's house. I spare you the description of what a meal at Aunt Emily's table was, with Aunt Emily teaching the children table manners. There are plenty of intolerable things in real life, without dragging into a story what happened when Uncle Charles spilled gravy on a clean tablecloth.

You notice, perhaps, that I say "at Aunt Emily's table," and not "at Uncle Charles'"; and that sets me at another angle of their home life; what that home life meant to Aunt Emily's husband. He was what is known in America as a man "with no head for business," and yet there had never been anything but business in his life. He had been a handsome, dreamy-eyed, musical-minded young accountant in Emery's Emporium when Aunt Emily, very young herself, had married him; married him, apparently for the same reason that he was in business, because there seemed to be nothing else to do. But Uncle Charles was no money-maker, and imprisoned in a grinding round of petty economies and unescapable shabbiness, how Aunt Emily ate her heart out, and what a life Uncle Charles led! But not even Aunt Emily's terrible energy could put into her husband's gentle, artistic, uncommercial soul, a single gust of the stormy ambition which blew like a tornado in her hurried heart. Uncle Charles hated all business desperately, and found the only pleasure in his life in his children.

My mother always said that those three Burton children would certainly just have wasted away, if it had not been for their father at this time. He had as great a gift for calming and cheering them as their mother had for damping the very life out of them. Whenever Aunt Emily was away from home for a few hours, and Uncle Charles was there with the children, what a good time they had in those short hours of respite. Uncle Charles in an easy chair, the children piled on top of him, his arms around them tight, while they had what they called a "chat." This meant a cluster of little voices, birdlike and free, which Aunt Emily had never heard in her life. Or perhaps they all sang together, for they had inherited Uncle Charles' gift for music.

If he had only had time he would have given piano lessons to all the children. But, dear me, he had no time except for that account keeping, and they had no money to pay a professional music teacher. Uncle Charles always looked ten years younger after such a visit with his children, whereas a rainy morning spent with the children in the house, always made Aunt Emily look a thousand years old. They wore on her face, they upset so the perfect order of her wonderfully kept house. And yet they did their best not to wear on her, by keeping away from her as much as possible. They never went home from school until it was actually supper-time, and always played in our yard, not their own.

The result was that Aunt Emily was left quite to herself in a Sahara desert of lonely housekeeping and desperate economies with the poor pitance which was all that Uncle Charles could earn. Her thin face grew grim and dark, as she mended and patched and turned and dyed and performed miracles on tough necks of mutton and cheap curtain materials. All of it she did with superlative skill but burning and raging inwardly (and many times not so very inwardly) against the necessity of doing it at all, and crying out bitterly with many fits of hysterical tears that she was killing herself for her family, and nobody gave her a bit of credit for it.

Oh, yes, everybody dodged when Aunt Emily hove in view, father as much as the rest, in spite of all his extenuations. Whenever we did have to go there, on unavoidable errands, we children would stand in the doorway, and assure her volubly that we couldn't come in, because our feet were muddy. This brought about the desired result of being told severely to hurry along then, and not get the whole house cold, with that door standing open.

Then came the climax in their misfortunes, as if they were not already sufficiently singled out for misery. Uncle Charles fell on the stairs, and hurt himself terribly, threw several vertebrae out of position, I believe, so that he lay almost wholly paralyzed from the waist down. And not a penny of savings to pay the doctor, not even for the grocer's bill at the end of the month. It was disaster, absolute black, irreparable disaster. Aunt Emily was stunned into silence, a dreadful gray silence, as of some one whose grudge against fate is rising to mania. I remember hearing father say to mother, after he came back from his turn at spending a night of care for Uncle Charles, "I'm afraid of the woman, I positively am. She looks as though she'd go mad." "Well, it's not out of sympathy for her poor husband, that's sure," mother answered acidly.

What do you suppose was the result of that terrific accumulation of emotion in Aunt Emily? What was the momentous, tremendous decision to reach which, in 1885, it was necessary for her to rise to that pitch of frenzy? Why nothing more nor less than this decision: both momentous and tremendous for my married woman with children—she put on her bonnet, yes, bonnet, it was in the last days of bonnets, when only young girls wore hats—and marched down town to ask for work in Emery's Emporium.

She got it, of course. Even if it had not been Aunt Emily, the humane head of the firm would have felt under some obligation to the wife of a faithful employee of such long standing. And in addition to this, it was Aunt Emily who, of course she got what she went after.

She was put . . . well, I don't know that I ever heard just in what small corner she was put at first, as an experiment; something easy and simple to suit her supposed inexperience of business and her supposed feminine incapacity for it. The life at home was organized somehow, anyhow, as best they could with different cousins taking turns to go in and help out with the work. Uncle Charles did not suffer any pain, and was quite himself as far as his head was concerned, his body like a log in the bed, but his eyes bright, his fine sensitive face pale, but calm and philosophic as always. He was quite able to direct the children as they dressed and undressed themselves and studied their lessons and learned to do the housework.

As Uncle Charles got better so that he could sit up in bed, things ran more smoothly. His bed was moved down to a corner of the dining room, where he could look into the kitchen. He could work with his hands now, which he had always loved to do, and they were never still from morning till night. My father gave him a wheeled tray which was always piled with work, done or to be done. He did all the mending and darning and he and Phoebe did the cooking and the kitchen work together. The children all brought their school books to their father's bedside, and "did" their lessons there, to a running accompaniment of such sympathetic, helpful comments from him, as they'd never known before. By mid-winter of that year, Uncle Charles was well enough to sit in a wheeled chair, which Aunt Emily bought out of the first raise in her salary, and presented proudly to him on Christmas day. After this, he was all over the house at once, active and cheerful.

He always sat beside Phoebe, as she practiced her music lesson, to listen, to play the bass in a simple duet, and to teach. My mother says she never saw a child get forward with her music as Phoebe did, after her father began to teach her. In no time she was playing the accompaniment for his light, clear baritone, and then the little house rang with music like a shell with the murmur of the sea. We all used to love to go there, as soon as school was over to "have a concert." Sometimes they sang Scotch airs . . . the tears we have shed over "Loch Lomond," the rest for battle-poured into us by "Scots who live," or it might be Irish. . . . how we have laughed over "Father O'Flynn," and yelled out the chorus of the "Cruel, Cruel Heart." . . . never was anybody who could sing "spirituals" like Uncle Charles. Oh, they were great concerts, we'll never forget.

And what was Aunt Emily doing all this time? You know as well as I do what Aunt Emily was doing. She was rising like a rocket through every phase of the management of Emery's Emporium. She was passionately interested in her work, because she could use it to serve her ambition; and because she was passionately interested in it, she mastered it, and owned it, and put it in her pocket. Everybody in that line of business in that part of the country soon knew her; she was half-fellow-well-met with all the traveling men, who liked her bluff manners and sharp tongue, feared her piercing eye, and respected her capacity always to get the better of them.

She was detested but admirably served by the staff of the store, who were bewildered by her really inhuman capacity for endless exactitude of detail, angry at the ever-rising tension of her demands, but plucked by the growling fauce of the store and by her instant recognition of business ability in a subordinate. "Business ability!" How Aunt Emily adored it! What a starved, wolflike appetite she had for all that it stood for. How intensely she lived in her new life!

Before long she had developed a new line, advertising (this was before the modern science of advertising was dreamed of) and while I dare say it would be an exaggeration to claim that she was the first to expand the present principles of psychological advertising, I know a good many people who think she came very near doing so. Merchants from other cities came to see her window displays, and talked with her about advertising. Aunt Emily, who never did anything for nothing, soon saw that she had a marketable product there, and proceeded to put it on the market. She organized what I'm sure was the first advertising agency, and ran it in odd moments of her busy days.

She was up and off to work early, reading the morning paper as she ate breakfast, which Uncle Charles had seen to. Then they saw her no more till night, when she came home walking strongly in the door, looking very distinguished and chic in the beautifully cut tailor suits of the best material that money could buy. . . . I am speaking now, of course, of the times after that difficult beginning. That period lasted, after all, only till she could get her bearings in the new world. Very soon, she was earning more money than Uncle Charles had ever dreamed of making. By the time Uncle Charles was around on crutches, there was a good competent girl in the kitchen. This left Uncle Charles more time and strength to give to the children, more leisure to perfect his own music, and more energy to plan the thousand ingenious variations, on the theme of domestic life which made their home the most delightful one to visit in, you can imagine.

Aunt Emily fitted in it all very comfortably. She was always agreeably tired by night, and relieved of her surplus energy, she was astonishingly good-natured and easy to get along with. There was plenty of money these days, for competent help, which Uncle Charles managed smoothly; there was plenty of money for good clothes, and good food, and nice china, and pretty glassware, and fine linen, all of which Aunt Emily enjoyed with a hungry pleasure which was never blunted by ceaseless repetition. She was happy for the first time in her life, Aunt Emily was, and although she was by this time, middle-aged and gray-haired, she was handsomer than she had ever been in youth. She grew and grew in acumen and business ability, and ripened with experience, till our small city was not big enough for her. She soared off to New York, carrying the family with her to an expensive apartment, and from there to Paris, where they lived for many years, Aunt Emily being the Paris representative of a great New York department store.

To the day of his death Uncle Charles always kept the children close to his heart, and directed their growth just as lovingly and wisely as ever. Phoebe is a professional pianist now, well known all over America and Europe. For years she was usually accompanied by her father, crutches and all. Charles is a successful architect, with a lovely French wife and two babies. It was beautiful to see Uncle Charles with his grandchildren! Bobby would certainly have gone straight to the dogs, if he had not had the most inspired handling at his father's hands. He was a wild, temperamental, unreasonable, warm-hearted, hottempered boy, who could not get on an instant with his mother. But Uncle Charles held to him through everything, and was a man of him at last, for he is a noted field worker for the New York Natural History museum.

This story sounds as though it were petering out, doesn't it, and as though this was about all there was to it! But there is something else, something I never told anyone but father. It was the great shadow secret of my childhood, something father and I knew, and nobody else. But now that Uncle Charles and Aunt Emily are gone, I can tell it.

This is what happened: When I was nine years old (about three years after Uncle Charles' accident) I chanced to stay at his house over night. I had a bad dream, out of which I woke up with a start, and unable to go to sleep afterward, I got out of bed and wandered to the window to look out into the moonlight.

HANDFUL OF BASEBALL STARS CHEATS FATHER TIME

Some of the vets that time has failed to stop. Left to right, above: George Hurns, Watne Sebang and Amos Strunk. Below: Babe Adams (when he was at height of his career), Tris Speaker, Ty Cobb and Eddie Collins.

Each baseball year takes its toll of veterans. This season probably will mark the passing of one or two more of the men who have done their share to make baseball history. Some of the "old timers" however, seem to defy John Henry Time. A glance over the big league rosters today reveals the fact that eleven men who played in world's series ten years or more ago are still going strong. Practically all of them have moved since those big days.

And, there in front of the house, walking round the garden paths, what do you suppose I saw? You will never guess. I saw my Uncle Charles, walking nimbly and briskly without his crutches.

I went home the next morning in a maze of bewilderment, and climbed up to my father's attic study. Speaking all in an excited hurry, I told him what I had seen. His first expression was one of utter amazement. "Your Uncle Charles walking without his crutches?"

And he fell into a long, thoughtful brooding silence, looking over my head, and not listening to my rush of exclamations. Finally he glanced down at me, with a strange, anxious look and with a voice of deep earnestness, such as I have never heard addressed to me before, as though something of terrible importance depended upon me, upon me!

"See here my darling," he said urgently, "you must never, never, never tell anybody else what you have seen. Promise me you will never speak of it again, not even to me. Just put it right out of your mind, as if you had not seen it. Lift your hand and promise."

As soon as I could recover from my awe at the solemnity of his look, I lifted my hand and promised, and a silence fell between us.

Then I said, "Father, please, I want to ask just one thing. If Uncle Charles doesn't need his crutches?" But I got no further.

"Doesn't need his crutches? What are you talking about?" exclaimed my father. "He needs his crutches! What in the world makes you think he doesn't need his crutches? He couldn't get along a minute without them."

I stared at him, beside myself with astonishment. My father went on: "They are his only defense against the Inquisition."

"The Inquisition," I faltered, "Westward Ho" in my mind. "We haven't any Inquisition in America."

"Oh, yes, we have," said my father. I struggled up through the overwhelming flood of my bewilderment, till I could get breath enough to speak, and protested. "But father, the only Inquisition I ever heard of is . . . you know, that thing that tortures people because they don't conform to the religion of the particular country they're in."

PUTS TWO SOX STARS ON BENCH

Roy Elsh.

Bib Falk, picked as one of the coming outfield stars of the game as a result of his spectacular hitting and fielding last year, and Amos Strunk, reliable old vet, are warming the White Sox outfield bench just now while Roy Elsh carvets in left field. And unless Elsh hits a slump he's due to ramble there for some time. Comes from St. Louis City.

POPULATION OF TWO BILLIONS

Berlin Figure Shows Make Estimate of Earth's Inhabitants.

(By the Associated Press)
BERLIN, May 21.—Scattered over the face of the earth is a total population of 1,894,187,631, only seven percent of which is in cities of more than 100,000 inhabitants, according to statistics compiled here and based largely on 1922 census reports. Only 30 of the 70 nations listed have cities of or above the 100,000 class, which is the lowest counted within the classification of "large cities."

Approximately 40,000,000 of the globe's inhabitants live in the 18 cents having a million residents or more each. About 90,000,000 live in the smaller, large cities, of which there are only 392 in the whole world. The average large city is said to number some 320,000 souls. From these figures, it is stated, every forty-fifth human resides in cities housing millions, while every fourteenth finds his home in a large city of some sort.

New York is given as the largest city in the world, with a population of 5,690,948. London is second with 4,483,249, and Berlin third with 3,803,770.

Europe leads the continents in point of population. It has six cities in the million class, London, Berlin, Paris, Glasgow, Vienna and Moscow, and 193 with more than 100,000 inhabitants. Of the European countries, England has 53 large cities, Germany 45, Italy 16, France 15, and Russia 15.

It is considered surprising that Asia has more large cities than North America. Six of the 25 Asiatic cities house more than a million apiece. These are Shanghai, Hankau, Calcutta, Bombay, Tokio, and Osaka. British India is credited with 30 large cities; China has 20, so far as available records show, and Japan's number 19, including three in her foreign possessions.

North America follows Asia with 79 large cities. Four of these, New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, and Mexico City, are placed in the million class. Of the nations on that continent, the United States leads with 68 large cities, 12 of which record more than a half million inhabitants.

Twenty-four large cities are located in South America, Brazil having 13. Buenos Aires and Rio de Janeiro are the only million-resident centers.

Australia counts eight large cities, none of which runs up into a million.

CANADIAN TROUT WILL SOON BE LEAPING AT AMERICANS' FLIES

ON A LAURENTIAN MTS. PORTAGE

WHIPPING A QUEBEC TROUT STREAM

SOLID SATISFACTION

SPLITTING ROCK IN NIPIGON RIVER

Fervid arguments as to the respective merits of Royal Coachman and Farmhouse Bells as trout lures, are being waged wherever two or three fishermen are gathered together these days planning their 1923 Canadian fishing trips. The waters of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario have all their devoted followers waiting for the ice to disappear. These anglers are always eager to try new fishing grounds and they find excellent sport in the less well known waters of Nova Scotia's streams that flow from the north into Cobequid Bay, headwaters of the Bay of Fundy. These are fed by a galaxy of lakes, including Economy and the Castlereagh. Brook trout ranging from one-half to five pounds will take the fly readily in May, both Silver Doctor and Royal Coachman are recommended. Nova Scotia brook trout are migratory—here today, gone tomorrow—partial to fast water. The headquarters for this region is Great Village.

As every angler knows, the country about Kedgemoor Road and Gun Club, 30 miles east of Annapolis, is a fishing ground of super-excellence. A mass of streams and tiny brooks lace to either shore of lakes and all these afford good sport.

Quebec's trout streams are many and wide spread and, being easily reached from eastern states, are deservedly popular with Americans. Satisfying sport is to be had in the streams in the Lake Edward district north of Quebec City, where Rowley's Camp provides experienced guides and canoes. At the western end of Quebec Province lies the well-watered Kipawa district with speckled trout in abundance in its streams and Lakes George, Smith and Little Beauchamp. Scores of good fishing waters are scattered through the Laurentian Mountains northwest of Montreal, some of the most satisfactory being in the St. Jovite region, which includes twenty miles of Devil's River, and Lac Outremont and Tremblant. Lac des lacs near Mont Laurier and the waters about St. Martin are famous for their yields.

Ontario's most celebrated trout country embraces Nipigon River and Bay, names to conjure with among the fishing fraternity. A new Bungalow Camp is being built at Nipigon Bay and will be open for the 1923 season. This will fill a long felt want and will, no doubt, attract a greater number of sportsmen to these waters.

MORE COTTON USED AT HOME; LESS EXPORTED

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The report of the census bureau on cotton consumption gives the number of bales consumed by American mills during April as 577,396 bales as compared with 443,509 for April, 1922. A decrease of more than 1,000,000 is shown in the number of bales in consuming establishments and warehouses and compresses compared with the same date in 1922.

Active spindles in the United States were 35,515,791 as compared with 31,389,695 in April, 1922.

Exports for the month were 259,984 compared with 598,209 for April, 1922. For the nine months of the fiscal year exports were 4,317,339 as compared with 4,982,403 for the corresponding period of 1922.

A large part of the falling off in exports was due to the fact that Germany has been taking much less than in 1922.

Marian K. Clark of the New York state industrial commission, estimates that one-half of the accidents in factories, with a resultant loss of $50,000 per day to industries, are due to ignorance of the language.

Steadily every industry is passing into their hands, vanilla curing market gardening, butchering, pearl shell and pearl buying. They are strong in all lines of merchandising and now have turned their attention to financing their own banks.

The history of the Chinese in Tahiti is an illustration of the Oriental infiltration where there are no laws to limit or prevent it. The French government, owing to a treaty with China, vital to the interests of the great French colony of Indo-China, places practically no restrictions on incoming Chinese in Tahiti.

Originally, Chinese immigrants were brought here as indentured laborers about the time of the American Civil war, when a large and flourishing cotton plantation was being operated by English interests. When the price of cotton fell with the close of the war in 1865 the plantation was abandoned and the majority of the Chinese coolies were returned to their country.

A few, however, remained, entered business in a small way, and gradually, by adapting their methods to those of the natives, obtained a grip on trade. This grip they have strengthened until today the European traders view the future with pessimism. Some go so far as to predict that within five years all the commerce of the islands will be in the hands of the Chinese.

Did Winter leave you with that tired feeling?

WINTER'S confinement, with its lack of pure air and sunshine, shows its effect in Spring. To be underweight, easily tired, listless, and have a poor appetite, indicates a weakened condition of the blood. Nature must have help—your blood is minus fighting strength! More red-cells mean cleaner, purer, richer blood. S. S. S. builds red-blood-cells. It builds blood-power! That is what makes fighting blood. Fighting blood destroys impurities. It fights boils. It fights skin eruptions. It always wins! It builds nerve-power, thinking power. It builds up run-down, tired men and women, beautiful complexions, and makes the flesh firmer. Stronger and more useful nerves depend on blood-power. S. S. S. will give you that greater endurance, energy and strength!

Mrs. Lizzie Felmet, Crowell, Texas, writes: "I was in a run-down condition—had lost forty-four pounds in weight. Also suffered from pimples and blackheads. My druggist recommended S. S. S. It made me a new woman. I think S. S. S. to be the best medicine on earth."

Try it yourself. S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores. The large size is more economical. Get a bottle today!

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

BE PATIENT—Let patience have her perfect work, that ye be perfect and entire, wanting nothing.—James 1:4.

When it comes to calling for more the Oklahoma Natural Gas Co. goes Oliver Twist a dozen times better. For several years past the ink would not be dry on an order granting an increase in rates until they would have an application filled for another raise. Lately they have been granted a boost by the federal court which enjoined the state corporation commission and took the matter into its own hands. The jump was made on the plea of a fancy valuation placed on the property. That outfit and others remind us of a story Nick Heard, tax assessor of Pontotoc county tells. Before the office of assessor was created he acted as township assessor in Stonewall township. One year after completing this work he was employed in a bank for a time. One day a customer came in to borrow some money, offering a pair of mules as collateral. Nick asked him how much they were worth. After a moment's hesitation the prospective borrower replied: "A durned sight more than I gave them in for taxes when you called."

Speaking of modern inventions, the three of most value to the printing trade are the linotype, the electric motor and the gasoline engine. The linotype solved the question of rapid composition and makes possible much larger papers than would otherwise be possible. The electric motor solves the power question for plants in places served by an electric plant. Without this a plant the size of the News would be forced to maintain a steam engine and engineer at great expense, leaving the gasoline engine out of consideration, and would mean a dangerous maze of pulleys and belts. When every machine is equipped with its own motor the matter is greatly simplified. Of course the gasoline engine has been a great boon to shops where electric power is not obtainable. In the old days where a plant could not afford a steam engine, hand and foot power were the order of the day and naturally that meant slow speed as a rule. Just which of the three has been of most importance to the printing trade might be a matter for discussion.

It appears that after several years with an enormous balance of trade against us, the United States has about reached the point where the balance will be the other way. America has been buying enormous quantities of foreign produced commodities and although the export trade has also increased this has not been as rapid as the growth of the imports. On top of this comes the enormous sum spent by tourists abroad and the remittances made by immigrants, it is apparent that everything is not coming our way. Foreign countries are selling as much as possible and holding their imports down to the lowest possible limit in an endeavor to get on their feet again. Perhaps the United States can stand this reversal of the balance for a time. At all events with most of the gold in the world held in this country, a few shipments of gold to meet some adverse balances will not create the consternation and panic that it occasioned in 1893-5 when at one time the gold reserve fund in the national treasury fell to $40,000,000 and forced a big bond issue to increase the supply.

A well-known writer relates that in spite of talk about distressing conditions in Germany, the city of Berlin has grown in leaps and bounds during the past four years and is now the third city of the world in point of population, being surpassed only by London and New York. This growth has been partly due to the hordes of refugees from various parts of Germany and from Russia, half a million fleeing from the bolshevik rule to Germany. He speculates on what may be the result when Russia again settles down and resumes her place among the nations of the world. He sees a possibility of the two nations joining hands economically and giving the rest of the world a run for its money in the trade channels. He says that Berlin thrives on misfortune and is apparently doing very well.

After all has been said about taxes, would the public be content to live without the things the taxes pay for? Not many people would. In the primitive days when luxuries were unobtainable, the people made the best of what they had and did not complain, but when times changed and various comforts and luxuries could be had and the people had the price, they demanded more and would not be content to live without things that they got along without when they could not be had.

It is gratifying news to know that the new glass factory will probably be building before another month has passed. We believe this is but the first of several new industries which will come to Ada this year.

The government reports are that the boll weevils are not as numerous as last year and the year before. At that he will sufficient quantities. He is one visitor we could do without.

BUSHNELL'S WEEKLY CARTOON IN 8 REELS

The Forum of the Press

War Taxes Stand.
Houtdale (Penn.) Citizen.
The United States in peace still bears the heavy burden of wartime taxation. The Revenue law (Tax law) passed by the present Republican congress four years after the war is still a war tax law. The Democrats offered a reconstruction programme in 1919 to reduce wartime taxation to a peace basis, but this programme was defeated by a Republican Congress. The Republican leaders promised to reduce taxes and readjust them to a peace basis when they came into "full" power. This promise they have failed to keep just as they have failed to keep practically all the promises made in that campaign. The worst and most unscientific tax bill ever passed by an American congress is the one now in effect, finally passed in the senate and signed by President Harding November 23, 1921. It gives no material relief to the taxpayers, except the big interests and larger corporations. These it relieved of over one-half billion dollars in taxes, shifting that amount to the general public. The best evidence of whether or not taxes have been reduced is for each man to answer for himself whether or not their taxes have been reduced.

Boys' Week.
McAlester News-Capital.
Boy's week, May 18-25, should not be passed by as just another of those innumerable special weeks. If the full value of constructive work among the nation's boys could be appreciated, this would be one of the most genuinely useful weeks of the year.

Today, in any city, there are organizations devoting time and effort to boys' welfare work, furnishing them wholesome recreational opportunities, offering courses of study to those who have had to leave school and go to work, preventing crime, from committing crime and helping them to find character-building activities which work unobtrusively while the boys have a good time.

The boy as a problem to the community is no more important than the boy's own problems. The wise parents or boys' leader helps to solve these and through them helps the boy find his place in community life.

Boys' Week simply points out once more that the time and money and effort spent on these potential citizens are well invested.

MIKE GAZELLA
The jolly little rookies picked from the colleges and minor leagues last season are now getting their baptism of fire in the big show or are gone far away. The next crop of youngsters to break into the major league will be the college lads, already lined up, who will be free to join the pro ranks at the end of the present college year next month. Number among these Mike Gazella. According to baseball critics who have seen the Lafayette College lad in action at second, he is a made star. Seven big league clubs have bid for his services it is said. Chances are good he'll join the Yankees.

BRITISH TRAWLERS ASK FOR GOVERNMENTAL AID

(By the Associated Press)
LONDON, May 21.—"Unless government help comes quickly many of the fishing companies of England will be ruined," is the opinion of the president of a big steam trawler company who is clamoring for protection. He says it no longer pays to run British trawlers because of the competition of German and Danish trawlers.

German fishermen, he says, have received such a hot reception in various British ports that they no longer try to dispose of their North Sea catches in them. They now transfer the fish to Danish trawlers and the Danish trawlers take them to British ports. The whole industry has been losing money, he declares for two years, and unless something is done very soon every British trawler will have to be laid up.

FIVE BEAUTIES FOUND IN SEARCH FOR CAST OF "RICH MEN'S WIVES"

Feminine loveliness plus feminine cleverness is much in evidence in "Rich Men's Wives," the new Preferred Picture, filmed under the direction of Gessner, famous for the excellence of his "Kismet" and other notable creations.

The screen world has searched high and low for actresses who combined the requisite dramatic ability and the physical attractiveness for the chief feminine roles in "Rich Men's Wives," and when the search was ended Claire Windsor, Rosemary Theby, Myrtle Stedman, Carol Holloway and Mildred June—a quintette of the film's most beautiful as well as most talented actresses—had affixed their signature to the dotted line.

No screen production of recent date has demanded so many beautiful as well as so many clever women players as "Rich Men's Wives," a story of modern society by Frank Dazey and Agnes Christine Johnson, which was prepared for the screen by Lois Zellner. It is a story that holds an especial appeal for women theatre-goers and offers unlimited opportunities to the four actresses who interpret the chief parts.

Besides this aggregation of feminine pulchritude the cast of "Rich Men's Wives" is noteworthy because of the unusual brilliance of the men of the cast. House Peters heads the cast. Associated with him are such fine actors as Gaston Glass, Charlie Cary, William Austin and Baby Richard Headrick, the gifted child actor, who achieved no end of fame in "The Child Thou Gavest."

Martha Matson, Carol Holloway and other well-known and capable screen players complete the cast.

"Rich Men's Wives" will be shown at the Edwain theatre, beginning today.

DECLARES SUNDAY SCHOOLS TEACH CHILDREN SEDITION

(By the Associated Press)
LONDON, April 5.—A petition with more than 1,000 signatures has been presented to the present parliament asking that the House of Commons explore the existence and growth of what are known as "proletarian Sunday schools," which in the opinion of the petitioners, are "fast becoming a menace to the stability of the constitution of this country, as well as to our national character, moral standards and home life."

The petition charges that these Sunday schools are engaged in the teaching of Communist principles, sedition and blasphemous ideas on all religion.

Oil News

(By the Associated Press)
NEW YORK, April 5.—Daily average gross production of crude oil in the United States increased 61,850 barrels for the week ending March 31, totaling 1,908,450 as compared with 1,846,600 for the preceding week according to the weekly summary of the American Petroleum Institute.

Daily average production east of the Rocky mountains was 1,203,450 as compared with 1,181,600 an increase of 21,850.

Oklahoma-Kansas showed a daily average of 503,000 an increase of 2,800.

In Oklahoma the production of the Osage Nation was 97,600 against 98,700; Tonkawa 87,700 against 83,200; Lyons-Quinn 8,950, unchanged.

The output of the Bristol field was 54,350 against 55,150.

O. G. Rose of Francis was in Ada today and stated that indications are all the details will soon be ironed out for the deep test to be drilled northwest of that thriving city in section 19-5-7. A few details are yet to be attended to. He says before a company agrees to spend $100,000 or $150,000, it is necessary to know just what they are doing.

According to reports, this test is to be 4,000 feet, if that is necessary to find the big pay sand that many oil men feel is certainly here.

The Smith-Lee Oil and Gas Company have a producer on the Wade farm in section 3-4-7 this being Wade No. 7. The well has not been entirely completed, and the exact production was not learned.

The Arkansas Natural Gas company, now operating the old Benedict & Trees property, is moving the machinery into the Francis fields to clean out these old wells in section 22-5-7, just southeast of the town of Francis. These wells have been producing for four or five years it is possible they will be shot after they are cleaned out.

Work is under way deepening the well of the Carter-Lowrey syndicate in section 32-5-5 in the Bebee field. Some work has also been done on the discovery well.

"THE PRISONER OF ZENDA" MAKES IDEAL PICTURE

"The Prisoner of Zenda," which was shown yesterday at the McSwain Theatre, is one of the season's super-plays. The magic of Rex Ingram, director of "The Four Horsemen," has given this old Anthony Hope classic of love and intrigue and adventure a new permanence on the screen. And as it comes to life in all the beauty and magnificence which only the screen could give it, it becomes a thing of pure romance and enchantment.

This picture may or may not have cost Metro a million dollars, but it is certain that it could have been no more beautifully nor more impressively made had it cost ten times that amount. It would be impossible to suggest actors who could better the performances of the various members of the cast which has been assembled to impersonate the roles of these familiar characters who have thrilled thousands either through the printed page or in the Edward Rose stage version.

Lewis Stone gives a flawless performance of the dual role of Rensselaer and King Rudolph. Alice Terry is a most charming and regal princess Flavia. Robert Edeson is an ideal Colonel Sapt and Stuart Holmes and Ramon Navarro as Black Michael and Rupert of Hentzau are the perfect villains of your imagination. Others who give splendid performances are Barbara La Marr, Malcolm McGregor, Edward Connelly and Lois Lee.

The photography, which is of rare beauty is by John F. Seitz.

Ada will have a large delegation at the state DeMolay convention at Norman, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. It was indicated when the bulk of the delegation left early this morning for the convention center.

Most of the Ada delegation leaving this morning went overland but others left by train. About 16 delegates are said to have left this morning. About 10 others will leave this afternoon and Friday morning, boosting Ada's delegation to approximately 25.

Further proof that Ada DeMolay members intend to be a part of the big show at Norman is seen in the fact that the DeMolay band of 20 pieces will further promote pep for the Ada delegation.

The member of the Masonic advisory council has not been selected but this matter will be settled definitely today.

George Poulter of Ardmore, district governor for the DeMolay organizations, and J. N. Wilkerson, state active of the national advisory council, will be speakers at the convention.

Wayde McAllister, sponsor of the University Chapter DeMolay which entertains the visiting orders, was formerly a teacher in the Ada High school.

Thursday will be devoted to group meetings for various DeMolay officers while the second day is scheduled to be the gala period of the convention. Parades and other ceremonials will be listed for the program of the day.

COPELAND AGAIN TALKS ON PRAYER

Series of Sermons Gather Interest as Revival Grows Here.

Concluding his series of sermons on "Prayer," Dr. Theodore Copeland, evangelist at the First Methodist church, claimed another influx of interest from members of the Methodist and other church denominations of the city in his message Wednesday night.

Dr. Copeland elaborated on the three final elements of prayer—Thanksgiving, Petition and Submission, in the course of his sermon.

Much time was spent on the discussion of the element of Thanksgiving in prayer, Dr. Copeland urging his listeners to be more thankful for the bounty of God's blessings. The evangelist entered the spirit of Thanksgiving into every day life, declaring that too little appreciation for the efforts of our fellowman is shown in the busy stride of life.

The evangelist also dwelt at length on the element of Petition in prayer, pointing to his listeners the richness of God's blessing and his willingness to give if His children will but ask.

The element of submission, the evangelist considered one of the most important. He stressed the necessity and appropriateness of trusting implicitly in His discretion in granting the blessings sought in prayer and the willingness of the petitioner in prayer to accept His will.

Dr. Copeland was given the hand of the entire audience when he asked for those believing in prayer and who would pray for a successful meeting in which the entire city would be stirred, spiritually.

The evangelist spoke to the East Central students this morning at morning exercises.

His revival at the First Methodist church will continue through three weeks.

HUMANE SOCIETY TO STOP DOG FIGHTING

(By the Associated Press)
CHICAGO, April 5.—An intensive campaign against the business of dog fighting has been in progress for the last two months by the humane associations of this country, according to a statement issued by officials of the Illinois Humane society.

"The movement was started by the National Humane Society and is being taken up generally throughout the country, according to reports," said George A. A. Scott, secretary of the Illinois society. "The campaign had its incentive in the repeated challenges from one handler of fighting dogs to another published in a magazine that circulates rather freely among dog lovers. It appeared from published accounts of the pedigrees of these bull terriers that the dog fighting business was flourishing all over the country, despite the watchfulness of the humane societies, assisted by the laws of every state and the police."

"One advertisement recently appeared in a magazine offering to pit a dog against another for $1,000 a side. The advertisements indicate that these pit dog breeders exist in all sections of the country, but especially in Massachusetts and the central and southern states.

"Reports reaching here indicate that a real interest is being taken in stamping out this evil and that the organized campaign is showing its effect."

4,000,000 PEOPLE

Annually use organic Nuxated Iron to build up red blood, strength and endurance.

There are thousands of people who are ageing and breaking down at a time of life when they should be enjoying that perfect health which carries defiance to disease simply because they are not awake to the condition of their blood. Without organic iron your blood carries no oxygen, and without oxygen there is nothing to unite with the carbon in your food so what you eat does you no good. It is like putting coal into a stove without fire. You can now obtain organic iron like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils, and apples from any druggist under the name of Nuxated Iron. Nuxated Iron also contains the principal chemical constituent of active, living nerve force: it is, therefore, a true blood and nerve food. It helps create and rebuild new and stronger red blood cells. It feeds the body the substances which nerve force must have to give it that vital, electro-magnetic power which is stored in the nerve and brain cells of man. Nuxated Iron often increases the strength and endurance of weak, nervous, rundown men and women in two weeks time. The manufacturers guarantee successful results to every purchaser or they will refund your money.

COLLEGE NOTES

Dr. Theodore Copeland who is conducting a revival at the First Methodist church, addressed the students at the college this morning. Rev. J. H. Ball, pastor of the church here, introduced Dr. Copeland and Mr. Bledsoe, who is leading the singing in the services.

The singer led the students in singing "America" and was followed by a short talk by Dr. Copeland. The Treble Clef club sang Kipling's Recessional.

A large number of the students are expecting to meet the south-bound Katy train tonight and greet the members of the baseball team which yesterday won over Edmond 5-0.

President Heath said he will have covered every town in the state within two years.

VIENNA TO AID UNEMPLOYED

(By the Associated Press)
VIENNA, April 5.—The city government has voted the sum of 120,000,000 crowns—approximately $2,000,000—for relief work among the unemployed. It is planned to spend half the amount to erect houses for more than 800 families, and the remainder will be used to extend the city's tramway system, build a public bath and for other social betterments.

SALTS FINE FOR KIDNEYS

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys as You Clean Your Bowels.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, and acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year. Adv.

Farmers' Column

Byron Norrell

I am told that a cotton seed famine threatens here. So many farmers are having to plant over that the demand for seed has about exhausted the visible supply. However, it is thought that perhaps a good many farmers may have a few bushels they can spare, and it is urged that these either bring them to town to be sold to those needing them or else see to it that some neighbor is supplied.

I have several times spoken of clover as a good thing to plant for pasture and hay. A day or two ago I saw another proof of the staying qualities of this plant when once set. When I bought Root Owl ranch two miles south of Ada four years ago, I found a good setting of clover mixed with bermuda grass in the hog pasture. It has never been replanted and generally has been grazed closely, but just now it is up thicker than ever, although the bermuda grass is also well set. It is about the only thing I know of that can hold its own against bermuda.

The government estimate places the increase in cotton acreage this year at 12 per cent, or a total of 31,888,000 acres. Based on the average for the past five years this will give a crop of 11,810 bales. However, what the yield will finally be is all guess work and very wild guess work at this time. The past two years were very short, hence if the yield is below normal this year the increase in the total crop will not be so marked.

CHINCH BUG.

By W. E. Jackson, Acting Entomologist, Oklahoma Agricultural Experiment Station. The past winter has proven to be almost ideal for the chinch bug, large numbers of them wintered over very successfully. In fact, there appears to be more chinch bugs this spring in Oklahoma than in any previous spring for a number of years.

We believe that the farmers will eventually come to agree with the entomologists in that fall and winter treatment is about the only safe method to follow in fighting this pest. Not only will they find it safe but economical. Where burning was not done thoroughly last fall or early winter, we find ninety percent more chinch bugs active in the grain fields.

We are unable to recommend a treatment to this insect as it now infests young corn and small grains in the fields. I do believe, however, there are some insecticides that would kill the chinch bug but it would cost well nigh the worth of a crop to make the application.

When small grain is harvested, the chinch bug will spread into adjoining fields and unless something is placed in their line of march to check their migration, corn fields will suffer greatly. When this migration occurs, which will take place at the time of harvest of small grain, a dust furrow should be placed between the stubble and the corn field. This ditch should be eight or ten inches deep. The side of the ditch next to the corn field should be perpendicular. The ditch should be wide enough to permit a drag to be drawn through it in order to destroy the chinch bugs that have fallen into the ditch. A few chinch bugs may escape by flying over to the corn field but by far the greater majority will travel on foot. In rainy weather this barrier method does not prove effective. In dry weather the bottom of the ditch can be kept pulverized and dusty.

The chinch bug disease is usually present in a rather dormant stage all over this state. When weather conditions become favorable for development and spread, the disease acts on the chinch bug. It does little or no good to spread this disease artificially. Disease control is not dependable.

Profit in Co-operation.

ADA PUTS ONE OVER NORMAN

Wins Brilliant Victory Over Visitors by Score of 6 to 1.

Displaying last year's mid-season form, the Ada Amateurs piled up a 6-1 defeat on the Norman club Sunday afternoon.

The southpaw twirling of Lefty Williams was the feature of the game, the chesty portside forcing ten opposing batsmen to strike out while yielding only two scratch hits and a base on balls.

Timely hitting by Lee, Fain and Thompson and the weakening of Box, Norman's slab artist forced in six runs for Green's Amateurs, which were more than enough to win.

The entire Ada club showed well, both at bat and in the field, making only one error and gathering nine well placed hits.

Rutledge, Ada's firstsacker, was hit by a pitched ball in the fifth and gave way to Kaiser, who finished out at the initial sack.

Thompson, with two hits out of three times up led the attack for the locals, but was pushed for home by his team mates Lee and Fain who smacked over two clean singles each out of four trips to the plate.

Norman started the scoring in the second round when Bishop singled, stole second, took third on Wanner's error and scored on Williams' wild pitch.

Only twice during the remainder of the game did Norman players reach first. In the fifth Kelly singled and stole second only to be left stranded on the keystone bag, and Clark, first up in the ninth was caught in a double play Wanner to Fain to Kaiser.

Ada did not start scoring until fourth. Young, first up flew out to centerfield. Rutledge was issued a base on balls. Lee came through with his first hit, a single to center. Rutledge scored on Thompson's fielders choice to the pitcher. Thompson went out trying to steal second.

The fifth was the big inning for the locals. Fain started the bombardment with a clean cap to center. Williams followed with a single and both runners advanced on Kirkpatrick's sacrifice. Fain showed old time form and stole home. Young flew out to left. Rutledge was hit by a pitched ball, bringing "Josh" Lee, Ada receiver to bat with the bases loaded. Lee's second hit of the game scored Williams and Wanner but Rutledge was out trying to reach third.

Thompson drew a walk in the home half of the sixth. West flew out to left field. Fain delivered his second blow, advancing Thompson who scored on Williams' sacrifice. Kirkpatrick stole second but was out at the plate trying to score on Wanner's short single to center.

Ada was blanked in the seventh and eighth but Williams' fast one was baffling the visitors who failed to tally after the second.

The Ada infield had a nearly perfect day handling assists, one error being charged to Wanner on his handling of Lee's peg in the second and his low throw to Young.

Wanner, Fain and Kaiser cut Norman off in a threatened rally in the ninth when a fast double play cleared the bags and Fain's running catch of Ghr's not liner in the fifth were the spectacular plays of the day.

There was once a lecturer who did not tell the patient students that they were leaders of the future, ha the campus was not the most beautiful that he had ever seen, that did not say "that reminds me of a story" and who was satisfied with the press reports.

Hay Fever

Those who have suffered year after years from hay fever, asthma and similar afflictions will welcome the information that in a large number of instances, it is possible to greatly relieve the symptoms, and sometimes cure these diseases permanently without going away from home.

Before discussing the method of treatment, we should first consider some of the causes of hay fever.

True hay fever is due to a peculiar sensitiveness on the part of some persons to the pollens of certain grasses, weeds, plants or trees.

Formerly it was supposed that the pollen of golden rod and ragweed were alone the cause of hay fever; but now we know that while these two pollens cause some cases, many other pollens are also to blame.

The earliest group of cases of true hay fever develop in April, are very few in number and due to the pollen of certain trees such as birch and maple.

The next group appears by the end of May and lasts till the end of July, while late hay fever begins in mid-August and lasts till frost.

Occasional cases are caused by pollen of daisies, asters, sweet clover, pollen of roses and golden rod is heavy and therefore not scattering widely, causes few cases.

What has been said applies to hay fever periods of the year. Many cases that occur at odd times during the year and certain types of asthma are due either to the presence of denoids or other nasal obstructions.

In cases coming at practically the same time yearly, a fairly correct guess as to cause can often be made by noting the particular grass, weed or flower pollen most common at that time.

A physician can often decide definitely by inoculation under the skin of the arm, minute amounts of a sterile extract of each of the pollens, considered responsible for producing the symptoms. No discomfort is felt until the substance actually causing the trouble is injected, when a slight swelling and itching occurs. Once the right substance is detected, relief from the affliction can usually be obtained by semi-weekly inoculations of increasing doses of an extract of the substance in question, this causing the body to manufacture its own antidote.
